Opportunities

NLU Delhi's Centre for Tax Laws is calling for papers. Send them in right now!

Lawread

About NLU Delhi's Centre for Tax Laws

In order to study tax laws, the Centre for Tax Laws was founded in 2018 under the auspices of National Law University Delhi. In order to help the student body understand the importance of tax laws and gain hands-on experience from seasoned professionals in the area, they hope to develop a top-tier research environment.

Concerning the Request for Papers

The National Law University in Delhi's Centre for Tax Laws is accepting contributions for blogs and essays about current taxation and other legal topics. They aim to encourage creative research on important subjects like international taxation, direct and indirect taxes, tax policy reforms, and more. Contribute research that connects government, business, and academia to actively advance tax law knowledge.

Categories of Submissions

- 3,000–4,000 word articles
- 1,500–2,000 word blogs

Themes (not all-inclusive)

- Direct and Indirect Taxation

- Digital Taxation
- Tax Policy Reforms
- Goods and Services Tax (GST)
- Banking and Insurance
- General Corporate & Tax Law

The last day to sign up

Rolling submissions

Procedure for Submission

To submit, click here.
Here is the brochure.

Lawread